

PASTOR'S COLUMN—AUGUST 26, 2013

Dear Parishioners:

We may have attended a parade or two along the way. Floats are a big part of a parade and we tend to focus our attention on them. But if we are in a large crowd trying to see the floats, it is likely that some of the crowd will not be able to see the floats; their view is blocked.

The “parade” of daily salvation in Christ is constantly moving along. No matter how many “floats” pass by us each day where the “floats” are our encounters with people, we can rejoice that our view of Christ Jesus in each person is not blocked in any way. At times we may lament that it is difficult to see Christ’s presence in some people. But our faith in Christ helps us to rise above the “crowd” of excuses we may have for not wanting to see Christ’s presence in certain people(s).

God, Our Creator Father, has made one humanity and Christ the Son is the savior of all people. So we are wise to be alert to Christ’s unique presence in each person for the “float” of salvation has room for all people.

Loving you in Christ,

Fr. Terry
